

We drove slowly back via ^(eventually) Colombes to Alles finding very little of interest except an entrance (not investigated) in the fisherman's path just 200 m before the Llorin ~~(the)~~ fork.

Road up to Puertas has a stream sinking on the right, apparently impenetrable. [Berodia / Inq. road mostly uninteresting.] ought a new map in Arenas - the top plateau of Sierra de Cuera looks seemingly interesting. But a big wall! 600m or more of steep west, then 6-8 km of possibly interesting country to cover. Definitely at a day trip!